

Photo Credit: Cetric Mphofela Volunteer via Facebook

MRA celebrates environmental hero Cetric Mphofela

The Metal Recyclers' Association of South Africa (MRA) is proud to celebrate the incredible work of Cetric Mphofela, whose dedication to environmental stewardship is inspiring communities across the country.

Recently featured in GoodThingsGuy, Cetric has been recognised as a true environmental hero for his tireless efforts in promoting sustainability and responsible recycling practices. His story is a powerful reminder that individual action can spark collective change, aligning perfectly with the MRA's mission to drive a cleaner, greener South Africa.

As the voice of the recycling industry, the MRA works to advance responsible metal recycling, support innovation and champion environmental awareness. Seeing leaders like Cetric embody these values reinforces the importance of our collective mission: protecting the planet while building a sustainable economy.

We salute Cetric for his leadership, vision, and commitment to protecting our environment. His journey highlights the importance of recycling and the role each of us can play in building a sustainable future.

You can read the full article celebrating Cetric's achievements on GoodThingsGuy.